Stalwart trustee Robert N. Haskell leaves the Board

"The ability to couple basic technical knowledge with an understanding of human nature is the main ingredient in a leader in the Twentieth Century."

UMO trustee Robert Nelson Haskell, class of 1925, is the man retiring President Winthrop C. Libby refers to in the above excerpt taken from the citation he read at the August commencement at which Trustee Haskell received an honorary Doctor of Engineering degree.

On August 17, Robert N. Haskell's alma mater conferred upon him the honorary degree and one short week later, on August 24, he became 70 years of age, which officially ended his 10 year career as one of the most influential and effective trustees of the University of Maine.

Speaking of his retirement on August 24, Haskell believes the mandatory retirement age provision, one which he helped establish, is for the good. "Got to have some younger people in there," he put forth.

At the July 25 trustee's meeting, Board Chairman Lawrence M. Cutler announced Haskell's forthcoming retirement, thanking him on behalf of the board for all he had done. "It's just an act of the legislature that you are not going to be with us after that particular date," he told the retiring Bangor native.

The president of Bangor Hydro Electric Company may have ended his trusteeship at the University of Maine but he is not "retiring" from all his countless other business, civic and community activities.

Now 70, Haskell has led an incredibly active life since his graduation in 1925, in business, Maine politics, his community and, of course, his alma mater.

He first worked for Bangor Hydro while still a student of electrical engineering at Maine. He became field engineer in 1926 and vice president and general manager in 1935.

In reviewing his life's civic activities, Haskell refers back to 1933, the depths of the depression, when as a 30 year old president of the Bangor Chamber of Commerce he took over a major responsibility in a successful effort that helped to reopen a major Bangor commercial bank.

As a four year ROTC student at Orono he was a Corps of Engineers reserve officer during World War II, but his application for active service was rejected by an alleged heart deficiency, so he accepted an appointment as a War Labor Board member in the Boston office.

Republican Haskell began his political life in 1945 with one term in the Maine House of Representatives. From 1947 to 1959 he served in the Maine Senate—four years as majority floor leader and as senate president in the last four years.

In a difficult and surprise decision, Haskell resigned from the Senate in 1959 after having been elected president of Bangor Hydro Electric Company. He told the press that after 14 years of public office he had no further political ambitions and that his responsibilities at Bangor Hydro had become increasingly great. Before leaving the political arena forever, though, Robert Haskell served a five-day term as Governor of Maine in January 1959.

"No question," Haskell emphasized on looking back on his 14 years in state government, "it helps you in every phase of business life to know and understand the workings of the legislature."

"It is entirely, one-hundred percent, up to the trustee himself if he has the interest and the capability," was Haskell's answer when questioned whether he believed the role of a UM Trustee was a rewarding and effective one. "He can go along and just rubber stamp, if he wishes, but on the other hand if he wants to work, study the issues, know the alternatives, he can be very effective."

The latter route was Haskell's choice during his years as an effective trustee. In the board's "farewell resolution" to him, he was noted for his work on the Physical Plant and Public Relations Committees in addition to his work as chairman of the Finance Committee. With his background in Maine government and business, Haskell's work at the legislative level in University finance was his greatest contribution.

"His key role as chairman of the Board of Trustee's Finance Committee has paid high dividends in terms of the University's fiscal integrity and our working relationships with members of the legislature," President Libby read from Haskell's citation.

Haskell became chairman of the committee about the time the controversial University of Maine statewide system was formed in 1968. Before the seven-campus merger, he was a trustee for the Orono Board and the advent of the consolidation gave Trustee Haskell some misgivings. Haskell recalls that, "Every single member of the old Orono board opposed the merger; the basis of it being we were fearful that it would be detrimental to Orono."

The more specific objection to many was that there would be a terrific increase in expense to the Maine taxpayer. Now, five years later, Haskell, though he thinks Orono has lost some of its identity, also believes there has not been any inequities in funding. "Time has proven that the state subsidies required have been greatly increased," he says.

In 1968 there was much campus unrest over the merger of the campuses and the following bond issues for University capital expenditures were defeated. Haskell feels student unrest and public reaction to the merger has in the past been a key factor in referendum votes.

Though he thinks Maine students were unlike the students rebelling across the nation in the early 70's, student activism still was a factor in the public vote. "One of the nicest things that happened was the blood bank drive at Orono that made national news," remarked Haskell when explaining that Maine students were different.

He even now insists that future funding in referendum votes is "entirely dependent upon public reaction to the University and its leadership."

The sons and daughters of Maine are very important to the former trustee and he believes that tuition should be kept at a viable level for Maine students to attend. Raising the tuition is the only taxing power of the trustees other than cutting programs, he laments.

In looking to the future he has one general opinion about his alma mater:

"I am well convinced that among the campuses, Orono will always be the big jewel in the overall University crown."

On a more particular issue relating to the University system, Haskell reported that he has never been an enthusiastic supporter of the Medical School without walls. He believes the expensive concept of medical education may not be within the financial capability of Maine people.

"I have always felt that our prime responsibility was to educate as many youngsters as our resources would allow us," he adamantly added. He fears that resources will have to be drained from other baccalaureate degrees at other campuses if medical education becomes too expensive.

Presently Robert Haskell still serves as president of Bangor Hydro Electric Co., president of the Bangor Humane Society, chairman of the Board of Directors of Merchants National Bank, director of Diamond International Corporation and president of Maine Electric Power Co.

In the past he has been president of the board of directors of Eastern Maine Medical Center, president of Merchants National Bank and head of the Penobscot Red Cross. He also was one of the original incorporators of the United Fund type of giving in Bangor.

And speaking of giving . . . Robert Haskell has always been a leader in that field.

"He has repaid many, many times any debt of gratitude he may have felt he owed this University . . . I have firsthand knowledge that for many years Bob very unobtrusively and anonymously has helped University students at Orono with aid funds, with bail money on occasions, with emergency donations, with support to the President's Discretionary Fund and with donations to the Pulp and Paper Foundation," President Libby cited in his commencement citation.

After hearing about all of Bob Haskell's past and present accomplishments, duties and positions, it would certainly seem audacious to ask him what he does in his spare time. (But I did!) As believed, his spare moments are few and far between. His spare time hobbies are cribbage board making in the winter for area hospital patients and gardening in the summer. And as far as vacationing, his business trips are about as close as he comes. He does have a vacation residence however. Surprisingly enough, it is not on a famous Maine coastal resort but rather it is a hunting and fishing camp that carries the address of Township 7 Range 11 on Snake Pond (right in the middle of the Allagash country), a spot well-loved but infrequently visited by the active businessman.

August 24 may have officially cut the ties from Robert Haskell to the trustee's chair he has filled for ten years, but he will be still very much tuned in to his University of Maine as it develops in the future. And we know he will be around in 1975, as he has been elected class president by his 1925 classmates to head up their 50th class reunion at Orono.

Governor fills two of four trustee vacancies

Three University of Maine trustees ended their terms and two others were appointed since the beginning of the summer.

Robert N. Haskell '25, W. Gordon Robertson and Vaughn Currier all finished their terms of trusteeships this summer. With one vacancy already existing, four trustee vacancies were created before the final approval by the Governor's Executive Council on Sept. 5 of Robert R. Masterton and Ms. Susan Kominsky.

W. Gordon Robertson, of Bangor, is a director of Dead River Company and was the first chairman of the UMO Development Council from 1960-61. He is a former president of Bangor Aroostook Railroad and has been director of several corporations and Maine promotional councils.

Vaughn Currier is district manager of the Maine Public Service Company in Fort Kent and is owner of radio station WSJR in Madawaska. Presently he is a member of the Maine State Board of Education. He attended Northeastern University in Boston.

Newly appointed Robert R. Masterton is president and trustee of the Maine Savings Bank in Portland and is a member of the Governor's Banking Study Advisory Committee. He is a graduate of Northeastern University, Harvard Business School and attended the Graduate School of Banking at Brown University.

Joining the Cape Elizabeth banker on the Board is Ms. Susan Kominsky of Bangor. She is a law partner in the firm of Vafiadis, Brountas & Kominsky. She is a graduate of Boston University with a B.S., B.A. and a LL.B.

6,000 conferees pick Orono

Gone are the lazy, hazy, bucolic days when the summer months at UMO belonged only to the summer session students. Over 6,000 people visited UMO this summer to attend conferences, institutes, clinics, workshops, festivals, etc. and also enjoyed the special facilities and setting of Maine's largest university. For some it was only a day's visit to learn about aerial color photography and for others, such as the 500 transcendental meditators, it was for a month's conference.

At a time when no university's finances are limitless, campuses around the nation are taking even greater advantage of their facilities during the summer months by employing an increasingly larger conference and institution schedule. Housing facilities that in previous summers had lain "fallow" saw much activity this summer at UMO.

Director of Conferences and Institutes John R. Benoit '59 has already reserved accommodations for many of this summer's groups on next year's calendar and expects that even more people from around the country will end up "conferring" at UMO.

New alumni team sets five-year goals

To stress regional approach and class agent activity

John F. Wilson, a dynamic quarterback who ran up scores for Maine teams in the thirties, is preparing to lead a new team of Orono alumni to higher scores—this time in the Annual Alumni Fund for 1973-74.

Now Vice President of Texas Instruments, Inc. with headquarters at Attleboro, Massachusetts, Wilson, class of 1933, came on the Association's governing Council in 1971 and immediately began carrying the ball for new projects, such as the grant of $750 to the Career Planning and Placement Office to help buy equipment that carries tele-taped interviews of Maine grads out to personnel departments seeking young men and women from Maine.

Named last spring to the post of National Campaign Chairman, Wilson has been building plans and recruiting a new line-up of campaign leaders.

Following a planning meeting this summer at his home in Barrington, Rhode Island, Wilson reported to the Association President, Ralph "Woody" Hodgkins, Jr., that his Annual Alumni Fund Committee proposed a five-year plan to get the fund goal up to $500,000 annually, with his committee shooting for a goal of $250,000 this year and an increase in active alumni contributors from the current number of 7017 to nearly 9000.

To back up the traditional October direct mail campaign to all alumni, his new approach calls for personal contacts with larger prospects by regional alumni workers this fall. He emphasizes the need for campaign workers to call for unrestricted gifts to go to the University through the Annual Alumni Fund campaign.

With the consideration and endorsement by the Council's Executive Committee, working cooperatively with university officials, he anticipates putting more alumni dollars to work in current programs on the Orono campus.

"Class-supported endowed scholarship and loan funds are fine," Wilson says, "and must not be neglected, but what we need in addition in the upcoming year for UMO is more alumni support that will give the University at Orono certain priority projects which are urgently needed—projects which are not tax-funded. I am asking for

Aiding Wilson in the person to person regional program this fall will be vice chairman Leonard N. Plavin '48, a business leader active in the Lewiston and Auburn alumni group, and whose job is to create regional teams in major Maine cities. Outside of Maine, similar teams in major metropolitan areas will contact Maine graduates under the leadership of Eugene F. Sturgeon '52 of Kensington, Conn. ## A commitment to progress: An alumni challenge

John F. Wilson National Chairman, AAF

As the University and the General Alumni Association move into a new era of leadership, there is a need to develop programs and goals which are responsive to and consistent with the growth and development of the University. Broadened alumni support to meet certain University needs is one of the major objectives of our Association; consequently, we have charted a five-year alumni fund program to meet this challenge.

Our program includes three major goals:

1. Increase the Annual Alumni Fund from its 1973 level $237,286 to the $500,000 level by 1978.
2. Increase alumni participation from its present level of 16 per cent to a goal of 33 per cent.
3. Enlist more alumni and alumnae volunteers for the five year campaign as leaders and workers.

Our campaign committee views these goals as realistic and attainable. In starting the five-year program, we have set the first year's goal at $250,000, with an alumni participation goal of 20 per cent for 1973-74.

In addition, the Committee is changing the traditional schedule and program of the Annual Fund. This fall, Regional Committees will concentrate on personal visits with certain key alumni. At the same time, efforts will be made to strengthen and enlarge the Class Agent organization to launch an intensive spring direct mail campaign to all classes.

All of these efforts are designed for more direct and effective communications with the 44,000 women and men who have attended the University of Maine at Orono. Many will be asked to help as Regional Committee members, Class Agents or Assistant Agents. And, all will be asked to contribute to the University through the Annual Fund as generously and realistically as possible.

A number of alumni have already invested much of their effort to the Association's "Commitment to Progress." The quality and success of this new campaign direction ultimately depends on those who care enough to share in its establishment and invest in its future. The Committee is confident that the women and men of the University of Maine will respond.

Vicki Rose Hebert, class of 1974, and the recipient of the class of 1938 scholarship fund, did not join the Big Sister program of the Student Action Corps because she was an only child. On the contrary, this Starks, Maine native, who has four brothers and sisters, has "adopted" 10-year old Mary Ann from Bangor as her "little sister".

Scholarships from alumni dollars

For Vicki these scholarships have greatly helped her to continue her education as a major in secondary education with majors in mathematics and biology. Next semester she hopes to practice teach near her home and after graduation teach in Maine. She has, however, been thinking about the Peace Corps. And if she does consider applying, there is one reference she can rely on—her little sister, Mary Ann.

Mrs. Connie Huntley, class of 1976, starts her day very early, packing lunches for herself and her ten and four-year old sons, driving the oldest to school (if it is her turn) and arriving on campus by 8:00 to catch her first class. At 29, Connie had been out of school eleven years when she returned as a freshman in the fall of 1972. And for her, scholarships such as the 1924 scholarship she now receives, have made it possible for her to attend.

As a mother, alone with two children there is a great deal more to think about than just book

For over a year Vicki has visited with Mary Ann at least once a week and has taken her swimming, to football games, to the airport or just for a short trip. By far the most popular item on Mary Ann's list is an overnight at her big sister's room at 314 Androscoggin Hall.

"It has been just great for both of us," explains Vicki about the SAC program for socially and financially disadvantaged area youngsters.

Every academic year Vicki has been able to receive scholarship assistance through the Student Aid Office, some of which has been through alumni dollars.

bills. Connie is a work-study student, ironically employed at the Student Aid Office where she works even during vacation periods. The Orono Food Co-op helps her keep the food bills in line.

Connie started last fall as an Arts & Sciences sociology major but transferred to Life Sciences & Agriculture in Child Development-Social Welfare, because to her it is more relevant to her future career she plans in state social welfare.

"A student has no age at Maine," she exclaims. "I just couldn't believe the acceptance here." She believes very strongly that mothers should try and either start or go back to their educations despite the added hardships.

Presently her 8-9 hour campus day and evenings with her children leave her little time for extra-curricular activities but she has been very interested in the Onward Program on campus.

These are just two profiles of UMO students receiving scholarships through alumni dollars. Over 50 students are recipients from different class and club funds. They are . . . 1905, 1906, 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912, 1915, 1916, 1917, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1935, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1943, 1946, 1953, 1954, 1957, 1958, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1968, and the Androscoggin Valley Alumnae Association, Black Bear Club of Rhode Island, Greater New York Alumni Association, North Shore (Massachusetts) University of Maine Alumni Association, Penobscot Valley Alumni Association, Portland Alumnae Association, Rhode Island Alumni Association, Senior Alumni Association, Southern Connecticut University of Maine Alumni Association, Southern Penobscot Alumnae Association, Western Pennsylvania Alumni Association, and the Cape Cod Alumni Association.

A new record of support for UMO

The alumni of the University of Maine at Orono gave through the Annual Alumni Fund for 1972-73 a total of $237,286.77, an increase of 21 per cent over the amount given in 1971-72. The record-breaking campaigns in both years were under the leadership of committees headed by Gordon I. Erikson '43 of Bar Harbor.

With respect and deep appreciation . . .

Although every gift of whatever size is vitally important to the success of the Annual Alumni Fund, special gratitude is expressed to those alumni and alumnae whose contributions place them in our President's and Stein Clubs. They are listed here with respect and deep appreciation for the generosity of their giving. Like a great many Maine alumni, they have a long history of making contributions to the University through the Annual Alumni Fund. In the record of class support, the Class of 1929, including a substantial major gift from George D. Bixby of Phoenix, Arizona, led the way with a total of $13,815.72 followed by the reunion Class of 1938 (Robert L. Fuller, president and class agent) with $10,220, and the reunion Class of 1933 (whose officers during the year were Frank W. Hagan, president and John F. Wilson, class agent) with $9,247.44 contributed.

And other substantial gifts . . .

While those cited above have made contributions of $1000 or more (President's Club) or $500 to $999 (Stein Club), at the same time tribute is paid to the 61 generous alumni who have made substantial gifts at the Pine Tree level ($250 to $499) and the 531 who became members of the Century Club.

And to thousands more . . .

Of the 7017 contributors this year, 2,600 made increases in their gifts. Many of these increases were recorded among the Maine Stay ($30 or more) and the Honor Roll givers. These are the loyal Maine alumni whose generous contributions form the substantial foundation on which the annual giving program is based. Your attention is recommended to the names of these generous alumni listed with

A special note of gratitude . . .

When President Winthrop C. Libby '32 announced his retirement during this past year, more than a thousand appreciative alumni responded to an appeal by Association President Albert M. Parker '28 to honor Win and Betty Libby, making contributions totalling $20,629 to augment a fund that is still growing, the Winthrop C. and Elizabeth T. Libby Student Assistance Fund.

Alumni & Other Voluntary Giving to UMO

Office of Development

The Department of Development receives charitable contributions in the following ways:

- Scholarships, loans and awards
- Fellowships, and faculty awards
- Contributions to Departments
- Matching Gifts
- University of Maine Foundation
- Pooled Life Income Funds
- Gifts-in-Kind (art, books and equipment)
- Special group interests, i.e.,
  - Parents & Friends Assoc.
  - Patrons of the Fine Arts
  - Friends of History
  - Students' Library Fund

This past year these contributions totaled $949,295.29. It should be noted that this does not include State, Federal, Industrial, or other research grants. One of our greatest strengths is wills and bequests that people leave to the University of Maine at Orono.

General Alumni Association

In addition to support of the alumni office, alumni giving through the Annual Alumni Fund each year provides scholarships and loan assistance. Alumni class funds are endowed in the University of Maine Foundation* and in the UMO Endowment Pool,* both of which contribute for the most part to student aid.

In addition, the Association provides funds for university projects on the Orono campus. In the twelve year history of the Fund $1,628,546 has been raised. For the 1971-72 campaign a record total of $237,286 was realized. As part of the Annual Alumni Fund $20,629 was contributed to the Winthrop C. and Elizabeth T. Libby Student Assistance Fund.

Pulp and Paper Foundation

The University of Maine Pulp and Paper Foundation receives substantial contributions of its educational and scientific programs from alumni and friends in the paper industry. The annual report for 1972 shows income from various memberships, investments, gifts and net gain on sale of securities to be $237,817.95. Other major contributions are gifts of named scholarships. There has been an increase of 4 scholarships over the last year, bringing the total now to 32, with a value exceeding $350,000.

Pine Tree State 4-H Foundation

The Pine Tree State 4-H Foundation is an organization which raises money in Maine for youth activities. During the past 11 years the Foundation has contributed funds through the Cooperative Extension Service for youth programs around the state. It is a volunteer support group of citizens. Income this past year has included contributions from individuals, dairy shows, capital fund activities, auctions and investments for a total of $38,565.23.

*The University of Maine at Orono/Bangor has an endowment pool administered by the Board of Trustees and shows in the report ending June 30, 1972, to be $5,879,063.39 for the Orono/Bangor campus.

*The University of Maine Foundation serves the state-wide university system. However, the Foundation was established in 1934 for the then only Orono campus. The fund has now grown to $2,299,870.18, an increase of $68,145.09, since June 30, 1973.

dent of Northern Connecticut UMO Alumni Association. The spring phase of the appeal will be headed by a alumnae leader Helen Pierce '41, former Alumni Council member and a representative of the Maine Alumni on the Board of Trustees at the time when such representation was offered the alumni.

George Hitchings '37 of Darien, Connecticut, who is president of MacKay-Shields Economics, Inc., an economic consulting firm in New York City will lead a program to have all Maine grads in companies with matching corporate gift programs take advantage of the opportunity to double their annual contributions. Last year these corporate matching gifts brought $19,365 to the Annual Alumni Fund. Hitchings is president of the Class of 1937, a member of the Alumni Council and was vice president of the Detroit Alumni chapter.

Wilson anticipates a vigorous response to his plans from younger alumni, those graduated since 1964. Here he has as vice chairman David E. Svendsen, a 1965 graduate who led Maine teams on the basketball court and who was a Senior Skull, and is currently on the staff of Needham High School in Massachusetts.

Handling the vitally important awards and recognition aspects of the drive with Wilson is Thomas J. Desmond '33, with past experience in alumni work as a member of the Council and former president of the local alumni association in Boston and Chicago. He is currently president of the Cape Cod alumni club. He will also second Wilson in many aspects of managing the fund program.

1973-74 Annual Alumni Fund Appeal

Alumni are offered low cost life insurance plan

The news is out. Your Alumni Association's collective buying power has been put at your disposal to benefit you, your personal planning and your family.

Through this program, your having attended the University of Maine at Orono one year or more now enables you to get valuable term-life insurance protection for yourself—or your spouse—at significant savings. Details were recently mailed to you announcing the program to all alumni, together with a letter from Ralph L. Hodgkins '59, President of the General Alumni Association and Lester J. Nadeau '59, Executive Director.

Under the program, from $10,000 to $50,000 of term-life insurance may be purchased at group rates—rather than the regular, individual policy rates you might normally pay. For example, you or your spouse can have $10,000 of this life insurance under age 30 for less than $.45 a week!

Low price is not the only feature. Through group-buying efficiency, fine quality and flexibility are also created.

Not only may your spouse enroll, even though not of our alumni body, there is also a special "all family" coverage available. It works as follows...

Either you or your spouse selects the Life Insurance benefit wanted for that person. Then, by adding 40% more to that person's Life premium, the other spouse is insured for 40% as much Life insurance and all your eligible, dependent children—now and in the future—are insured for $200 from age 14 days to 6 months and for $2000 each thereafter until age 23. No extra charge is made for the children.

Some other features of our Alumni Group Life Insurance plan are:

*Medical exams are normally not required.

*Extra accidental death and dismemberment benefit are available. Costing but pennies a week for year-round coverage, it is considerably more reasonable than buying travel-only policies or per-trip insurance at airports.

*Waiver of premium is provided in case of the primary insured's becoming totally disabled.

*All insureds have a right to exchange group term-life benefits for group permanent insurance, under contract stipulations.

The Enrollment Period for this program is limited, so applications cannot be accepted after the enrollment period ends. If you have not received the enrollment material already or do not in the very near future, rush the Request Form below to the Alumni Office.

A call for Career Award nominations

Though retired President Winthrop C. Libby '32 has just been presented the General Alumni Association's 1973 Career Award, it is time to think about the 1974 recipient. The nominating committee has planned a November committee meeting and needs nominations from the alumni body.

This award is given to an alumnus who has revealed the quality of the educational excellence of the University of Maine at Orono by his or her outstanding record in professional, business, civic or other public service.

Please send all nominations accompanied by a supportive statement before Nov. 1 to Les Nadeau, Executive Director, North Hall, Alumni Center, University of Maine, Orono, Maine 04473.

Mary Ellen Chase dies at 86

Maine-born Mary Ellen Chase '09, professor, author and lecturer died July 28 at Northampton, Mass. at the age of 86.

Miss Chase began her never-ending education at Blue Hill Academy, the town of her birth, which was to become the setting for many of her works. After earning her bachelor of arts degree in history from Orono she followed with her master's degree and doctorate from the University of Minnesota.

She kept Maine in her heart and works though she was a professor of English at Smith College from 1926 until 1955. Besides her family home in Blue Hill she maintained a home at Petit Manan, Me., named "Wind-swept" after one of her most successful novels.

She held honorary degrees from the University of Maine, Smith College, Northeastern University, and Bowdoin, Colby and Wilson colleges.

ERRATA

In the Summer Issue of the Maine Alumnus incorrect figures were published on the new University budget. According to Herbert L. Fowle, vice chancellor for finance and administration, there was a 5% salary increase for the classified employees and an average of 6% increase for professional employees. The full statement that $2.2 million was being channelled to increase enrollment at the seven campuses was also untrue, according to Fowle.

Retired WW II submarine hero dies

Retired Admiral Frank Wesley Fenno, 70, a member of the class of 1923 from Bethesda, Maryland died on August 16 in Kensington, Maryland. He attended UMO for two years before entering and graduating from the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland in 1925.

The submarine hero of World War II was decorated with three Navy Crosses for his valor during service. He retired in 1951 after having been commander of the U.S. Base in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

In 1951, the University of Maine awarded him an honorary doctor of laws degree. He retired in 1961. Two sons, Charles '52 and Frank '55, were both graduated from Orono. Admiral Fenno leaves his widow, Avis (Cochran) Fenno, three sons, three sisters and 12 grandchildren. He was buried with full military honors at Arlington National Cemetery. The University's Carillon, a gift of Alfred Lingley '20 which was dedicated to Admiral Fenno, played the Navy Hymn in his honor the day of the funeral.

Maine coastal short story collection reviewed

By Constance H. Carlson, Acting Director of the University of Maine at Bangor, and an alumna of the Graduate School of the University of Maine at Orono, class of 1945.

Is your version of the Maine coast fixed by the memory of a beautiful May Maine Day spent on the pink rocks of Mount Desert Island? Do you go to a cottage on its shoreline for your vacations? Have you explored by boat, the coves and inlets which grace Maine's coast? Or do you head for Maine's lakes and mountains for your recreation? No matter how deep or how shallow your knowledge of Maine's coasts, Edward M. Holmes, Professor of English at the University of Maine at Orono and an alumnus of its Graduate School, class of 1954, will lead you into uncharted waters both physical and psychological in his latest collection of short stories, A Part of the Main. The collection issued as Number 95 of the Maine Studies Series is attractively designed by Arline K. Thomson, who has also provided the cover sketch and the headnote drawings for each story and sketch.

Each story takes what out-of-staters like to call "Maine characters" and shows a facet of the continuing struggle to preserve tradition, integrity, often life itself. The unifying force of the collection lies in the sensitivity of the narration. Professor Holmes has a perceptive, sophisticated insight into character. It gleams through a salty sense of humor that laughs with his sympathetic protagonists and slices into a bait tub the sticky-fingered and selfish who put self-interest above their neighbors. It shows in the handling of his dialogue. Dialogue is tricky to write, especially when the phrasing is not homogenized television language. Professor Holmes makes his dialogue part and parcel of a way of life, a key to a point of view. The turn of a sentence, "I ain't spending no cash of mine on fancy grub," reveals a cryptic economy of style as well as the hard scrabble for life that permeates the stories. Professor Holmes achieves a tender balance that prevents him from slipping into the condescension of local color for entertainment instead of character.

The characters do not stick in our minds as individuals. Instead they remain as pieces of a giant quilt, the kind that would be good enough to display with shy pride at the county fair. Men, women, and children of all ages have their dignity and their folly interwoven and displayed, but always dominated by a major theme, the sea.

Professor Holmes has the healthy respect and awe of the sea that comes from all-weather years of living with it, not solely summer's gentle waves that bemuse our visitors. His romance encompasses its turbulence, the sudden descent of "pillow humps of fog," the terror of "storm-whipped rocks," and weather so cold that a man "could spit sleet." He describes its beauty, too, but he reaches his height when a man is tried against the sea.

We understand now why Professor Holmes' critical literary interests have dealt so effectively with Hawthorne and Faulkner. The morality delves deep to the rightness of the thought as well as the deed, and the sea in Holmes' work, prevails as does the land in Faulkner's. A Part of the Main rewards the reader on more than one level. It can stir memory; it can stir conscience.

Bear win opener against UVM

The Black Bears opened the 1973-74 gridiron season with a winner against the University of Vermont Catamounts on Sept. 8 at Vermont's home field.

The 14-0 game was completely dominated by the young Maine team throughout. The best individual player was Jack Lamborghini, tri-captain, who tallied 100 yards rushing on 28 tries.

The Bear's season's first victory was not without a setback. Maine's place-kicker, Jack Leggett, broke his leg near the ankle while intercepting a pass and was hospitalized.

How would you like to . . . . .

- 1 receive a free illustrated authoritative catalog showing original graphic arts by many of the world's greatest printmakers . . .
- 2 acquire original fine art for your home and office, from one of America's most respected print dealers . . .
- 3 know that you are assisting in the development of your Alma Mater's art collection, while doing nothing more than buying art for yourself . . .

The Ferdinand Roten Galleries and I, with the generous help and support from the UMO Alumni Association, have come up with what we think is a unique idea. . . a plan whereby you can acquire original art works for your home while at the same time assist in developing our University Collection.

On your request, an illustrated catalog from the Roten Galleries will be sent to you at no charge. By selecting from this catalog you can acquire an authentic work of art from one of America's most reputable print dealers. Fifteen percent of your purchase goes toward the development of the University Art Collection. (You may take this amount as a tax deduction, if you want.) Putting credits together over a period of time will make it possible for us to select art works from the same Roten catalog.

You may remember from your college days how the art collection beautifies the many public areas of the campus, and how it is constantly used for exhibiting and study. Over the years, the major portion of the collection has come as a result of gifts; little, or no money, being appropriated for the purchase of art. This proposal, then, would help in the development of your Alma Mater's collection . . . and at the same time let you acquire original art to enrich your life and those around you.

Send for your free catalog and make your selections soon . . . I shall let you know how successful the program turns out to be. Clip off the lower portion of this page and mail it to me or to the Ferdinand Roten Galleries, 123 W. Mulberry Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

Vincent A. Hartgen, Chairman, Department of Art, University of Maine, Orono, Me. 04473.

This issue of The Maine Alumnus has been sent to all known alumni. Over 43,000 copies have been printed in hope that those who have not been receiving the magazine will wish to receive it in the future. Each alumnus receives the magazine for the two years following graduation. After these two years any contribution to the Annual Alumni Fund enables you to receive copies of the magazine. Find out what's going on at your University and keep up with the news of your classmates by becoming an active alumni giver and receiving your Alumnus.
